COVID-19 hits Red

Coronavirus numbers high in Jefferson, other local counties

BY BOB DEMAREE
Rising cases of COVID-19 have pushed both Jefferson and Switzerland counties back into a “Red” advisory level on the Indiana Department of Health’s statewide metrics map — meaning community spread of the coronavirus is now considered “high” locally.

For the last week, Jefferson and Switzerland had both been at an “Orange” advisory, indicating medium to high virus spread, but with both local and statewide test results continuing to trend upward, the two local counties joined Jennings County and five others in the “Red” advisory designation. Meanwhile in Kentucky, both Trimble and Carroll counties have incidence rates in the “Red” advisory level indicating high community spread there as well. COVID-19 numbers are continuing to climb quickly in both Indiana and Kentucky. On Tuesday, Kentucky Gov. Andy Beshear issued an

BZA OKs permit for medical transport at airport

BY MARK CAMPBELL

Madison’s Board of Zoning Appeals removed one hurdle to Madison landing an air medical transport service to operate out of Madison Municipal Airport by approving a conditional use permit allowing PHI Health to locate a modular structure on airport grounds.

According to Madison Airport Manager Brent Spry, Arizona-based PHI Health would use the structure as an office and base for an independent helicopter transport service with pilots, flight nurses and flight paramedics staying and sleeping on-site while on-call 24/7 to respond to emergency calls.

PHI Health, which has more than 65 bases in the United States including several in Indiana and Kentucky, operates air medical transports both in cooperation with hospitals and as an independent. The base proposed for Madison would be an independent and could transport accident victims and others in need of immediate medical care to the closest trauma centers available.

The company, which makes more than 30,000 transports annually nationwide, hopes to fill a void in Southern Indiana where the closest helicopter transport in Indiana is a cooperative base located in Seymour and the closest in Kentucky is Trimble County between Bedford and Milton operated by another company.

“We’ve been trying for years to get a paramedical helicopter in Madison,” Spry said. “This adds a level of care to Madison that we

Shelburne has deep ties to Madison

“I still have my 502 area code, JD Shelburne proudly tells me, as I reach him by phone on the road. “My Nashville friends all kid me and say I should get a Nashville number, but I tell them my Taylorsville, Kentucky, roots are deep and I’m sticking with it forever.”

JD’s Madison roots are pretty strong too, as he explains. “I was playing at Madison Regatta don't currently have. It also gives the airport better on-site medical care because we're going to have 24-hour medical staff on site so if we have an emergency they are already there."

Spry said the company will invest about $200,000 for the base of operation out of about a $1 million startup that will include locating a helicopter in Madison and providing up to 14 jobs for pilots, mechanics, flight nurses and flight paramedics with a median salary of $80,000.

"Almost 50% of our people live in the county," PHI's Johnny Collins said. "You will not find another air transport within 50 miles like that."

Collins said PHI has already started to hire locally and relocate employees from other areas to staff the facility. He said two of the company's pilots will move in from other states, relocating with their families to Madison.

The property proposed for the base is currently zoned residential/agriculture so a conditional use permit is needed to proceed. Spry said the company is also in the process of going through the Federal Aviation Administration's permit process to locate the service and base on airport property.

"We're hoping for a soft opening in October," Spry said.

Spry asked the BZA to grant the company a 5-year permit for conditional use, a point which some board members questioned when the majority of permits are issued for one year until a company has a proven track record in the community. Spry said the company has signed a five-year lease on the land with that deal scheduled to auto renew and, while the FAA permit is open ended, if the company should close operation in Madison, FAA regulations would require the building to be removed from airport property.

Another concern board members had is the potential for additional emergency traffic on the narrow side roads around the airport like Borcharding and Chicken Run roads. BZA member Rick Ferris lives on Borcharding and said the road is too narrow for wide traffic now and meeting an ambulance rushing to meet the helicopter could prove dangerous. "There's a couple of places on the road where you could encounter traffic issues," Ferris said.

Spry said having the air transport on-site might improve the area's case for the county to widen Borcharding, an improvement that is already needed by the fuel trucks that deliver to the airport as well as others.

"I put that in the Field of Dreams category," Ferris said. "If you build it, it will come."

The BZA voted 4-1 in favor of the application with Ferris opposing based on the 5-year permit as opposed to one-year approval.

Throughout that process, there are requests for funding from non-profit organizations for money Jefferson County receives from the riverboat gaming fund through Belterra Casino Resort in Switzerland County, but the amount available depends on the revenues the county receives.

Two of the requests at Tuesday's meeting were previously made before the County Commissioners, too — the Town of Hanover seeking $10,000 for its Parks Department and $7,500 for its Senior Citizens program, and Lifetime Resources' request for $20,000. The other request came from Scott Hubbard, president of the Jefferson County Fair Board, who is seeking $20,000 for the county's 4-H programs and the fairgrounds.

"We're a youth development organization that provides a great return back for the rest of their lives," said Hubbard. Even through COVID-19, participation numbers have remained high as 4-H has retained all 18 clubs with roughly 500 youth involved. Hubbard expects "even more next year."

Despite wet weather for most of the week during this year's Jefferson County 4-H Fair, Hubbard said the board "had a good fair and an exciting week." Since the 2020 fair was held virtually due to the COVID-19 pandemic, there were fewer animals when the fair returned as an in-person event this year, yet he said record dollars were raised for the youth at the 2021 livestock auction, along with additional money for scholarships.

Hubbard said 16% of the fair board's funding comes from the county budget and that makes an impact in the work 4-H is able to do for the youth in the county. "We appreciate your support," said Hubbard.

Kenny Garrett, president of the Hanover Town Council, described the work that is being done to enhance Hanover Community Park in his request. "We've really started to get things rolling in Hanover, and we'd like to keep it going," said Garrett. In particular, he cited improvements in the park, and more that are coming. "It's all going in a good direction," he said.

Council member Heather Foy said she was recently at the park for a musical concert, and she "was bragging on the park. It's amazing. The changes there have been outstanding." However, she questioned Garrett about inadequate parking; that with all the activities now at the park it's often difficult to find a place to park. Garrett said there are already plans in place to address that issue with more parking to be added in the next couple of years.

Garrett also talked about the town's senior citizens program in which he said 50 to 60 residents are participating two days per week with plans to expand activities for senior citizens in the future.

Erin Thomas, executive director of Lifetime Resources, said the $20,000 request is a significant increase from the $8,000 that was previously allocated, "but it still represents the need represented in the county." She noted that Lifetime's services in Jefferson County are valued at $1.2 million, and $20,000 is less than 2% of that.

Council members asked Thomas about other funding that Lifetime Resource receives, and she noted that United Way supports Lifetime, along with other governmental entities in the county in which Lifetime is requesting funding for 2022. Much of Lifetime's work focuses on providing services to help people maintain their independence — mostly geared toward senior citizens — but the Catch-a-Ride public transportation program is available to anyone.

In other business, the council:

- Approved an additional appropriation of $5,600 towards a vehicle purchase for the Jefferson County Health Department. The vehicle, originally priced at $33,000, increased when a four-door unit was received.
- Approved transfers totaling $3,608 for part-time pay to allow for on-the-job training for a new employee in the County Auditor's office.

day, too. Anyway, Amy and I hit it off right away and started a sort of long distance relationship while I was on the road and living in Nashville.

"I guess you could say things worked out. Her name is Amy Shelburne now, and our son Jax is 10 months old. Since that first time I played at Regatta I guess I've been back to perform about once a year. This year I'm actually coming twice, first for the Music in the Park show on August 13, and then the Shawe Festival on September 10."

For those of you not familiar with JD's career, he's a rising star on the Nashville scene with numerous songs and videos charting on CMT. He's also been recently honored with a display at the Kentucky Music Hall of Fame and garnered praise from Kentucky Gov. Andy Beshear for his accomplishments.

"We're really rolling right now," JD continues, "probably we'll do around 215 shows this year. We recently had the honor to open for ZZ Top over in Louisville, and as it happens we were the last band to open for the original trio, as bassist Dusty Hill passed away very soon after."

At this point I asked JD if he had any advice for our aspiring young Madison musicians, especially those contemplating a move to Nashville.

"Yes I do. I can give several pieces of advice. First, before you even think about leaving your hometown, build up a strong local fan base. Then you have a foundation that will support you when you go off to Nashville and come back later.

"Secondly, I would say it's crucial to have a good, professional website. Fans and booking agents will judge you based on how it looks and feels. Put the energy and resources into a good solid web presence.

"Thirdly, after you come to Nashville, you need to leverage that address in everything you do. Being a 'Nashville artist' carries a lot of weight with band bookers, and it can lead to better paychecks, too.

"And finally, if you are lucky enough to find some success, keep your humble roots in mind. I've met some big names who are just not fun to be around. And then I've met people like The Oakridge Boys and Steve Wariner who are just as friendly and courteous as you could want.

"That's my goal in this business. I want to make it big, for sure, but I hope to never forget that 502 area code and the down-to-earth Kentucky home that I came from."

Hot Tip of the Week

OK, this might be a record for the weekly music calendar. There are 21 live music events in the next seven days. TWENTY-ONE! You'd almost think we were a music town or something. Two of the classic summer events are happening this weekend, starting with Music in the Park on Friday, featuring JD Shelburne and then Music at the Mansion on Sunday with Ed "Sax" Thomas. Both of these events are super family friendly where you can bring your own chairs and cooler and just hang out. And both are free! On Saturday you have seven choices, starting in the morning at the Farmers Market, and ranging all the way across the river to Richwood. Oh, and check out the Doctor's Band at Riverboat Inn, that should be a raucous good time.

Charlie Rohlfing is a retired advertising man and partner in The Red Bicycle Hall music venue. Look for his distinctive fedora bobbing above the crowd, anywhere live local music is happening.

executive action requiring indoor mask wearing by K-12 students and staff in Kentucky schools, regardless of COVID-19 vaccination status.

"We are in the midst of the fastest surge that we have ever seen during COVID right now," Beshear said.

"This move is supported by medical organizations, local health department leaders, businesses and education leaders. It is also supported by the Kentucky Chamber, representing 3,800 member businesses across the commonwealth. This is a united front of saving lives, keeping our kids in school and keeping our economy and workforce going.

A week ago, Indiana Gov. Eric Holcomb told reporters he would not implement any new statewide restrictions related to COVID-19, and so far he has stuck with that plan.

The Associated Press reported that state Health Commissioner Dr. Kristina

Box has said that specific actions "are local decisions now" and while health officials are providing "strong guidance" to schools and businesses, she said Indiana "is very much a state" that feels such control "should be in the hands of the elected officials."

Jefferson County has had no group setting outbreaks in the county at this time. The county has reported cases of the Delta variant, which now accounts for 87.2% of Indiana samples being tested for variants. People infected with the Delta variant carry up to 1,000 times more virus in their nasal passages than other strains, resulting in higher transmissibility, even among the vaccinated.

Jefferson County has seen 44 breakthrough cases so far — positive test results among those previously vacinated — which means 0.3% of the county's vaccinated residents have experienced a breakthrough case, a number slightly higher than the 0.2% state average. However, breakthrough cases are experiencing less severe illness than those unvaccinated, according to the Jefferson County Health Department, which states that vaccinations prevent severe illness and hospitalizations.

In the last day, Jefferson County has 44 reported new positive cases of COVID-19 with 193 positive cases so far in August. Overall, Jefferson County has had 3,690 positive cases of COVID-19 during the pandemic. The county's death toll during the pandemic remains at 87. The county's 7-day positivity for all tests is 13.6% and the 7-day positivity for unique individuals in 22%.

Switzerland County has had eight new positive cases of COVID-19 in the last day, bringing the total for August to 32 with 29 of those cases involving residents who have not been vaccinated. Throughout the pandemic, Switzerland County has had 884 positive cases and eight deaths. The county's 7-day positivity for all tests is 14.7% and the 7-day positivity for unique individuals in 29.3%.

There have been 2,507 positive cases of COVID-19 in the last day throughout Indiana for a total of 790,926 overall. There were 19 additional death for a total of 13,680.

In Kentucky, there were 2,500 new positive cases of COVID-19 with the state's overall total now 502,712 and seven new deaths for a total death toll of 7,394.

Trimble County had six new cases of COVID-19 in the last day for 773 overall and eight deaths. Trimble's incidence rate is now 43.8%.

Carroll County had 13 news cases of COVID-19 in the last day for 1,116 overall and 21 deaths. Carroll's incidence rate is now 45.7%.

Anyone who is sick should seek testing immediately and stay away from others until results are known. Free testing is available at the Jefferson County Community Testing Site located at King's Daughters' Hospital Convenient Care, 445 Clifty Drive, or schedule a COVID test by visiting www.coronavirus.in.gov

Jefferson County Health Department is accepting walk-ins at its office for COVID-19 vaccinations at its office at 715 Green Road, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Three vaccines, Pfizer, Moderna and Johnson & Johnson are available. Individuals ages 12-17 must receive Pfizer vaccine and have an adult present.

Switzerland County Health Department continues to operate a vaccine clinic at 1190 West Main Street, Vevay. There will be a vaccine clinic today at Belterra Casino Resort & Spa in Florence, Indiana, from noon to 2 p.m.

Need my makeup

Dear Annie: I am a 29-year-old woman, and I've been having an ongoing debate with my boyfriend of 10 years.

I wear makeup because I am insecure about my skin and my face in general. I have tried any and all products recommended to me to help clear up my skin.

I have suffered from eating disorders in the past and have constant fixation and amplification of every flaw, so I'm aware of the fact that it might be body dysmorphia that is in part driving my anxiety about my face. I am going into therapy and seeing a dermatologist next month, and I will start my process there.

But in the meantime, when I look in the mirror at my bare face, I see a monster. Makeup takes away some of that anxiety — gives me confidence in myself, allowing me to enjoy life a little more.

While I know that it is not healthy to be so dependent on cosmetics, they are helping me get through these feelings for now.

The problem is that my boyfriend hates that I wear makeup. He constantly insists that I stop wearing it, to the point that we regularly get in heated arguments about this. He even jokingly says he will break up with me if I continue to wear it. I tell him that not wearing makeup just doesn't work for me. I tried it once for a year. It didn't clear up my skin, and it was horrible emotionally.

I really don't know what to say to him at this point other than that I am in the process of hopefully solving this problem, but even if my blemishes clear up, the mental and emotional aspects will take time. I understand others will say: "It's just makeup. Ditch it for him if you really love him!" But I don't think people understand how much I really can't stand seeing the face I have naked in the mirror. It brings me to tears and causes anxiety attacks — which

I feel like my boyfriend would resent me even more for. He doesn't have much patience for insecurity of any kind. I'm not sure what to tell him other than, "Let's wait and see." Any advice? — Can't Face the Mirror

Dear Can't Face the Mirror: Just as it would be wrong for your boyfriend to demand that you wear makeup, it's wrong for him to demand that you don't. It's your face, and it's up to you what to do with it. His threats of breaking up hardly qualify as "jokes" in my book. That kind of talk smacks of bullying. Enlist the help of your therapist in setting and enforcing boundaries in your relationship so that you can focus on healing yourself and reducing your anxiety.

How can I help my neighbor?

Dear Annie: I have a neighbor who is 90 years old. Her only caregiver was her adult son, who just died last week after a long struggle with opioid addiction. Since then, I and another neighbor have been checking on her several times a day, as she needs a lot of care. We've been grocery shopping for her, picking up prescriptions and running errands. We've also got a meal train going with other neighbors on the street. The problem is what to do long-term. She needs a high level of care, as she's disabled and not easily able to get around the house herself. In fact, she just got out of the hospital a few days before her son died, after a four-week stay. I've contacted social services multiple times, but they've yet to show up. I believe she's an extreme fall risk. Do you know of any options?

She has no other family nearby. Her only living relatives are on the opposite coast and are in their 80s. We're at a loss for what to do, but it feels like an emergency. —

Scared for My Neighbor

Dear Scared: What a tragic situation. My heart goes out to this woman. In the short term, would it be possible for her to return to the hospital until she has home-care services in place? It's dangerous for her to be on her own right now, and she doesn't have anyone able to stay with her. That is an emergency worthy of hospitalization.

Then, help her come up with a long-term plan. If she has Medicare, she should be eligible for some home health care services. Medicare doesn't cover 24/7 home care, just part-time care up to 28 hours per week. (Learn more at <https://www.medicare.gov/coverage/home-health-services>.) From what you've shared, it sounds like she might need round-the-clock care at this point. If she has Original Medicare, that would cover a 100-day stay in a skilled nursing facility. You might ask if she would authorize you to speak with her health care providers so that you can help her make an informed decision. I wish her the best, and I commend you for extending her a hand in a time of need. The world needs more neighbors like you.

Dear Annie: I feel your advice didn't go far enough when responding to "Am I Wrong," the man whose father-in-law is constantly making jabs at him about his kids' religious training and other matters. He was ready to divorce his wife over the FIL's mistreatment. You essentially encouraged him to be patient with his wife and not hold her dad's behavior against her. I disagree. His wife should have stood up to her parents years ago. She should have said: "Mom, Dad, I love you, but if you continue to make disparaging remarks about my husband or me, you will be seeing a LOT less of us. Have I made myself clear?" That's it. Hard stop. At this point, the letter writer and his wife need to work with a licensed marriage and family therapist to learn how to present a united front to her parents. — Debbie

Dear Debbie: Seeing a marriage counselor would be an excellent idea for this couple, as the father-in-law has saddled them with plenty of baggage over the years that they'll need to unpack if they're to live happily together. Thanks for the note.

Moratorium on songbirds lifted

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — State officials have lifted a moratorium on feeding birds in 76 Indiana counties — including Jefferson and Switzerland — as an investigation continues into how songbirds are dying.

But people in Allen, Carroll, Clark, Floyd, Hamilton, Hancock, Hendricks, Johnson, Lake, Marion, Monroe, Morgan, Porter, St. Joseph, Tippecanoe, and Whitley counties still should not feed birds, the Department of Natural Resources said.

The moratorium was recommended June 25 “to slow the spread of a still-undetermined illness that is killing birds across the state,” the DNR said in a release.

Shawe picks up uncontested win in quad meet

BY THE COURIER STAFF
Switzerland County's Hailey Hines scored her second low-medalist round in as many matches but Shawe scored an uncontested team win in a four-way girls golf match at Sunrise Golf Course Tuesday.

Hines, who set a nine hole school-record with a 36 at Butler Falls Golf Course Friday, wasn't quite as sharp on Tuesday, but her 43 was still the best score by five strokes.

Shawe was the only complete team among the four schools and picked up the win with a 216. Kira Wells led the Hilltoppers with a 48, Yolett Perez had a 54, Gia Craig carded a 56 and Bailey Kilgore shot a 58.

"We were a little flat tonight. We try to have the mindset of 'the only shot that matters is the next one,' but tonight some of our girls were focusing on the bad shots rather than putting them behind them," Shawe coach David Hertz said. "Golf is a game that you have to grind away at and sometimes figure things out on your own. We're not there yet. Still, end of the day, we were four shots better tonight than we were last week at Sunrise so we're still meeting our goal of better play."

Lily Williams had a 54 for Switzerland County while Kenna Perkins shot a 65.

Ximena Vilchis-Harrison paced Southwestern with a 57, Hannah Sampson had a 62 and Kayla Boscia had a 72.

Tracy McKittrick led Jac-Cen-Del with a 51, Emma Wagner shot a 70 and Ally Mosier carded a 72.

Switzerland County's Hailey Hines follows through on an approach shot on hole No. 5 during her match at Sunrise on Tuesday. Hines' 43 was good for low-medalist honors.

All three teams return to action today with Shawe and Southwestern heading to Jac-Cen-Del and Switzerland County traveling to South Dearborn.

Shawe then competes in the Madison Invitational on Saturday and hosts Lawrenceburg, Henryville and New Washington on Monday. Southwestern hosts Switzerland, Jac-Cen-Del and South Ripley on Monday.

TRIMBLE BOYS FALL IN OPENER

Shawe's Kira Wells reacts after a tee shot on hole No. 5 during her match at Sunrise Golf Course Tuesday.

Southwestern's Ximena Vilchis-Harrison watches her approach shot on hole No. 5 during her match at Sunrise Golf Course on Tuesday.

Trimble County boys golf opened its season against Gallatin County at Sugar Bay Golf Course in Warsaw Tuesday and lost 199-231 to the hosts.

Trimble hosted Carroll County on Wednesday at Cardinal Hills and returns to action on Tuesday when it faces Walton-Verona at Sugar Bay.

Duvall homers as Smyly, Braves walk past Reds, 3-2

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
ATLANTA — Adam Duvall hit a two-run homer, Stephen Vogt's bases-loaded walk in the sixth forced in the go-ahead run and the Atlanta Braves beat the Cincinnati Reds 3-2 in a matchup of second-place teams on Tuesday night.

Drew Smyly (8-3) recovered after allowing a two-run home run to Aristides Aquino in the second inning. Smyly allowed two runs on only two hits and two walks and seven strikeouts in six innings. The left-hander won his sixth consecutive decision.

Will Smith gave up a one-out double to Kyle Farmer in the ninth. Smith walked Eugenio Suárez before pinch-hitter Mike Moustakas hit into a game-ending double play. Smith earned his 23rd save in 26 chances.

Duvall's homer, his 25th, tied the game in the fourth.

Heath Hembree (2-7) and Amir Garrett combined to walk three batters in the sixth, helping the Braves break a 2-2 tie.

Hembree gave up a single to Austin Riley before walking Swanson. With one out, Garrett issued back-to-back walks to Pederson and Vogt, forcing in a run.

Reds manager David Bell wouldn't blame the loss on his bullpen.

"You look at the big picture and our pitching allowed three runs tonight," manager David Bell said. "So I think the story was more our offense and the pitching the Braves threw against us."

Reds starter Sonny Gray allowed two runs with eight strikeouts in five innings.

Indians 9, Reds 3 (Monday) — José Ramírez hit a two-run homer and an RBI triple, leading the Cleveland Indians to a 9-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds on Monday night.

Wilson Ramos also had a two-run homer, Amed Rosario was 4 for 5 with an RBI and Cleveland used five pitchers in a planned bullpen game to end Cincinnati's five-game winning streak.

Justin Garza (2-0) pitched two scoreless innings. The right-hander was the Indians' second pitcher and worked the third and fourth, striking out three.

Bradley Zimmer hit a 471-foot homer to center field leading off the seventh — the longest by an Indians player this season — and drove in two runs. The ball landed in a wooded area beyond the 400-foot sign on the wall.

Luis Castillo (6-11) allowed eight runs — including two homers — in 3 1/3 innings. The right-hander lost for the first time since June 20, a span of nine starts.

"The location of the pitches wasn't there and the batters were able to make you pay," Castillo said through a translator. "It was a bad night for me."

The game was the makeup of a rainout at Progressive Field on May 9, a series that began with Reds left-hander Wade Miley pitching a no-hitter. The teams split their six inter-league games this season, so Cleveland retained the Ohio Cup for the seventh straight year.

Castillo fell to 0-3 lifetime against the Indians.

Garrett has a 6.42 ERA and has issued 24 walks in 33 2/3 innings. He said he's thinking too much on the mound.

"It's an uphill battle for me right now with the walks and everything," Garrett said. "... I've got to go back to not thinking, just throw the ball over the plate and let my pitches work."

CINCINNATI — Joe Mixon's imagination is soaring right along with his confidence.

The Cincinnati Bengals' top running back has rebounded from a foot injury that sidelined him for the final 10 games of the 2020 season. He looks healthy and strong early in training camp.

And Mixon is so enthusiastic about the team's potential that he's floating a nickname for himself and the other featured offensive players, including quarterback Joe Burrow and receivers Tyler Boyd, Tee Higgins and Ja'Marr Chase.

"I was thinking about the Fantastic Four, with me, Ja'Marr, Tee and (Boyd)," the 25-year-old Mixon said. "But I can't forget about my dog Joey B, so I had to throw the Fabulous Five in there."

Burrow is still struggling to get his bearings after major knee surgery last December. Chase, the fifth overall pick in this year's draft, has yet to play a down in the NFL. And Cincinnati's offensive line, which will have a big say in how fabulous the five get to be, is still a work in progress.

But there is the potential for explosiveness, and Mixon sees himself being the tip of the spear again.

"That's five people that are real big-play guys, home-run guys," he said. "Everybody got to touch the ball but at the same time, I know I'm going to put the load on my back and take the initiative of carrying the team. It's always going to start up front and with me and how physical that I'm coming and playing the game. I'm going to set the tone."

A second-round draft pick in 2017, Mixon piled up more than 1,100 yards rushing in both 2018 and 2019 even as the Bengals and their offensive line flailed. Last season he had one notable game — 151 yards and two touchdowns in a 33-25 win over Jacksonville on Oct. 4 — before going down with the right foot injury two weeks later in Indianapolis.

He tried to make it back, but with the Bengals securely stowed in the AFC North basement, coaches told him to shut it down and focus on getting ready for 2021.

"Last year was definitely tough," Mixon said. "It sucked because I couldn't be there for my team. They needed me, I needed them. I was definitely in a bad state."

Mixon, a two-down back through his four-year career with the Bengals, is also about to get more responsibility.

Cincinnati released reliable third-down back Giovani Bernard, so coaches will expect Mixon to be in the game on third down to catch passes or provide protection for Burrow.

"Joe (Mixon) has a really unique ability because he's so big and fast and strong," offensive coordinator Brian Callahan said.

"He also catches the ball well, so there's a place for him in the pass game," Callahan said. "The third part of playing running back besides running and catching is protection. They're a huge part of protection on third down. Joe has grown and improved in that area, really through his career. It'll be asked of him a bunch this year to be able to do that."

Cooper’s late 3 lifts Hawks over Pacers in NBA Summer League play

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
LAS VEGAS — Sharife Cooper made a go-ahead, 3-pointer just before the buzzer that lifted the Atlanta Hawks to an 84-83 win over the Indiana Pacers in the NBA Summer League on Tuesday night. Cooper scored 21 points — making 5-of-8 3-pointers — and had nine assists. Atlanta drafted the 6-foot-1, 180-pound guard with the No. 48 overall pick after he entered the draft following his freshman season at Auburn. Jalen Johnson, drafted No. 20 overall from Duke, had 18 points and 10 rebounds for the Hawks. Atlanta’s Skylar Mays, a second-round pick last year, scored 16 points. Chris Duarte, selected No. 13 out of Oregon, led Indiana with 21 points and seven rebounds. Second-year pro Cassius Stanley scored 14 points, third-year pro Oshae Brissett had 13 points and Isaiah Jackson, taken with the No. 22 pick, added 13 points. Cooper’s game-winning shot from the corner, in front of the Pacers’ bench, was the eighth lead change in the fourth quarter.

CELTICS 107, NUGGETS 82
Aaron Nesmith scored 33 points and made 7-of-9 3-pointers while Payton Pritchard had 21 points, 12 assists and eight rebounds to help the Boston Celtics rout the Denver Nuggets. Nesmith, drafted No. 14 overall last year, had 11 points in the first quarter as the Celtics jumped out to a 31-25 lead. Pritchard, who is also in his second year, and third-year pro Carsen Edwards were in double figures in the first half to help Boston lead by 20 points at halftime after shooting 62%. Bol Bol, son of former NBA player Manute Bol, led the Nuggets with 26 points and nine rebounds. He is trying to make the most of his opportunity in Las Vegas after playing sparingly in his first two NBA seasons. Denver’s Nah’Shon “Bones” Hyland, drafted No. 26 overall, scored 16 points and Davon Reed added 10 points in his hopes of making it back to the league. Reed was not in the NBA the previous two seasons after appearing in 31 games over two seasons with Phoenix and Indiana.

BULLS 92, SPURS 89
Patrick Williams, drafted fourth overall last year, scored 30 and second-round pick Marko Simonovic had 13 points to help the Chicago Bulls earn a comeback win over the San Antonio Spurs. San Antonio outscored Chicago 26-14 in the first quarter and led by 15 points at halftime. The Bulls went on a run early in the fourth quarter to take the lead and held on for the victory. Second-year pro Tre Jones had 23 points and rookie Joe Wieskamp scored 11 points for the Spurs. Jaylen Morris scored 20 and Malik Newman had 19 points for the Spurs, who are giving both players another chance to play in the NBA.

ROCKETS 111, PISTONS 91
In a featured showdown between the No. 1 and No. 2 picks, it was Jalen Green who received more offensive help from his teammates in Houston’s win over Detroit. Green, the second overall pick who bypassed college basketball to play in the G League, scored 25 points in 30 minutes — going 6 of 11 from the field and 10 of 11 on free throws. His third and final 3-pointer gave the Rockets an 18-point lead with two minutes left. Josh Christopher, the No. 24 selection out of Arizona State, helped Green run the Houston offense with 15 points.

Valpo announces Beacons as new team nickname

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
VALPARAISO, Ind. — Valparaiso University announced Tuesday that it has adopted the Beacons as its new team name, replacing the Crusaders, a term school officials dropped this year after saying it had been embraced by hate groups.

The university’s President José D. Padilla said the private Lutheran school’s new nickname “directly connects to the University’s motto, ‘In Thy Light We See Light,’ and represents the Valparaiso University community in many ways.” “We are beacons of knowledge for our students’ academic, social and spiritual growth. Above all, we are beacons of God’s light around the world. We light the way for our students, so that once they graduate, they shine their light for others,” Padilla said in a news release. School officials announced in February that they had retired the Crusaders name following input from students, faculty and alumni. That decision came after a decades-long debate that has recently intensified because groups such as the Ku Klux Klan began using the words and symbols of the Crusades, which were a series of bloody religious wars starting in the 11th century between Christians and Muslims.

For years, Valpo’s sports mascot had been a helmeted figure in faux armor. But the school’s faculty and student senates each passed resolutions calling for a change and the university’s alumni board of directors supported reassessing the team name’s appropriateness. Beacons was chosen after a months-long process that included nearly 1,000 suggestions and input from students, student-athletes, faculty, staff and alumni at the 3,100-student university, located in Valparaiso, about 15 miles (24 kilometers) southeast of Gary. The new nickname, new mascot and related imagery will be phased in during the 2021-2022 academic year, and Valparaiso’s intercollegiate athletic teams will immediately be known as the Beacons, the school said. Many of the university’s marks and logos, including its colors and the “Shield of Character,” will remain part of the university’s brand, school officials said.

Coaches charged with murder in heat death

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
JONESBORO, Ga. — A grand jury has charged two coaches with murder and child cruelty in the death of a Georgia high school basketball player who suffered a heat stroke after practicing outdoors in nearly 100-degree weather, an attorney for the player’s family said Tuesday. The Atlanta-area grand jury indicted Larosa Walker-Asekere and Dwight Palmer last month, according to court records and news outlets. Imani Bell, a 16-year-old junior at Elite Scholars Academy in Clayton County, was participating in required conditioning drills for the girls’ basketball team on August 13, 2019, when she collapsed after running up the football stadium steps, according to a lawsuit her family filed in February against administrators at the school. The temperature was in the high 90s, and the area was under a heat advisory. Imani died later that day of heat-related cardiac arrest and kidney failure, according to the suit. Justin Miller, an attorney for the girl’s family, said Tuesday that the indictment “sends a signal that the DA is taking this seriously.” His office had received a copy of it. But he added that he wants to see the case move ahead “swiftly.” “The point of the case is the prosecution, not just the charges,” he said. Miller identified Walker-Asekere as the head basketball coach and Palmer as an assistant, and he said both were on site at the time. Court records do not list an attorney for either defendant, and Clayton County prosecutors did not immediately return an email seeking that information and details about the indictment. Messages for attorneys listed for Walker-Asekere in a separate case were also not immediately returned. The family’s lawsuit says school officials violated a Georgia High School Association rule banning outdoor practices in weather conditions such as those that Imani faced. It also says they never properly measured the temperature in advance. The school district declined comment.

Ballard, Reich extensions give Indy more pieces for future

BY MICHAEL MAROT
ASSOCIATED PRESS
WESTFIELD, Ind. — The Indianapolis Colts expect to win now. They’re also looking ahead to what they believe will be an even brighter future. On Wednesday, team officials announced coach Frank Reich and general manager Chris Ballard had signed contract extensions, keeping both with the team through 2026. Financial terms were not immediately available. “For me as a head coach, the most exciting thing is the chance to keep working with Chris,” Reich said after practice. “Along with Mr. Irsay, we get to take this team down the path we think it’s headed. Bright things are ahead.” Reich was not scheduled to speak with reporters Wednesday and did not take questions. Ballard also was not available to reporters. But both have already made their intentions clear. Reich, entering his fourth season, and Ballard, in his fifth with the team, believe they’ve built a championship contender even as they’ve used the early portion of training camp to bet big on future seasons. They signed right tackle Braden Smith to a four-year, $72 million in late July. And while recent ankle surgery kept two-time All-Pro linebacker Darius Leonard off the field for the first two weeks of camp, he returned to practice Tuesday — two days after agreeing to a new five-year deal worth nearly $100 million. Now the Colts have their coach and general manager under contract long term, too. “We have as great a general manager/head coach combination as there is in the NFL, and I can’t tell you how proud I am to have them leading our franchise,” team owner Jim Irsay said in a statement. “I truly believe this football team is on the doorstep of great things, and that’s because of the culture both have cultivated in their time with the horseshoe. Whether we are marching toward the playoffs or facing adversity, whether we are building our roster or making a difference in the community, we have the ideal leaders in Chris and Frank.” It’s not just what the Colts have done in the past month. Last year, Ballard acquired All-Pro defensive tackle DeForest Buckner in a trade with San Francisco and immediately gave him a four-year, $84 million extension. Before last year’s regular-season opener, starting center Ryan Kelly signed a four-year, $50 million deal. In November, defensive tackle Grover Stewart cashed with a three-year deal worth $30.75 million and in March, Ballard traded for quarterback Carson Wentz who has three years left on the four-year, $128 million contract he signed with Philadelphia. What does all this mean for the Colts? “Continuity. It’s what we’ve built here with Frank,” new offensive coordinator Marcus Brady said. “It’s just great.” Injuries also have forced Indy into peeking at some other future options. Wentz has been sidelined by a foot injury since the third day of camp, giving extra snaps to second-year quarterback Jacob Eason and rookie Sam Ehlinger. Wentz had surgery last week and could miss the Sept. 12 season opener against Seattle.

Virginia Union player dies after collapsing in practice

RICHMOND, Va. — A Virginia Union freshman football player has died after collapsing during football practice over the weekend. He was 19.

Quandarius Wilburn's death was announced by the Division II university.

The 6-foot-2, 230-pound defensive end collapsed Sunday during a conditioning session, according to a letter the university's president sent to students and staff Monday.

The letter said Wilburn was taken to VCU Medical Center, where he later died, news outlets reported. The football team had spent a full day together — breakfast, church and lunch before the workout, the letter said.

"This is a heartbreaking loss for our campus community," Hakim Lucas, the university's president and CEO, wrote. "I want to personally encourage each of you to keep Mr. Wilburn's family in your prayers, as well as the VUU athletics department."

The school said it is ready to support families and students as they "work to process this devastating loss."

Wilburn was from Wadley, Georgia. He graduated this year from Jefferson County High School in Louisville, Georgia.

The Panthers did not play football last fall or in the spring because of the COVID-19 pandemic. The team is to open its season Sept. 4 at Hampton.

NCAA picks 23-member committee to reform its constitution

The NCAA announced a 23-member committee Tuesday that will work on reforming its constitution, a panel that includes university presidents, college sports administrators and athletes across all three divisions.

The panel was announced less than two weeks after the NCAA's Board of Governors called for a constitutional convention to reform the way sports are governed by an organization with more than 1,100 member schools and some 450,000 athletes.

Former Defense Secretary Robert Gates, who is an independent member of the NCAA Board of Governors, was appointed the chairman. Among the other members are Penn State athletic director Sandy Barbour, West Virginia athletic director Shane Lyons, Tulane athletic director Troy Dannen and Atlantic Coast Conference Commissioner Jim Phillips.

Westbrook eager to help James in homecoming to LA Lakers

BY GREG BEACHAM
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOS ANGELES — Russell Westbrook was a Lakers fan from childhood, and he skipped school to attend their championship parades. After he became close friends with Kobe Bryant, they spoke about the responsibility and honor of playing for this decorated franchise.

Yet even after Westbrook became an NBA superstar with the autonomy now available to basketball's best players, he figured the timing would never be right to suit up for his beloved hometown team — let alone alongside two fellow superstars with a real chance to win his first championship.

"Some of these dreams don't come true for people like myself," Westbrook said.

After spending the last half-decade racking up spectacular numbers for teams with little chance of major success, Westbrook is joining the Lakers for his 14th NBA season. Los Angeles general manager Rob Pelinka pulled off a spectacular trade to team Westbrook with LeBron James and Anthony Davis on a reconfigured Lakers roster designed to win rings now.

When it came together over the past week, the 32-year-old Westbrook said he repeatedly found himself at a loss for words.

His broad smile said plenty when he held up his gold No. 0 jersey

Tuesday alongside his parents and brother.

"Being from LA, you always wish that you could play for your home team," Westbrook said. "That's definitely something that always circled around in my mind. Maybe one day? But I always would come back and be like, 'Ah, that probably won't happen.' I just had to wait and see. But now that we're here, I'm going to take full advantage of it."

The Lakers believe they can take full advantage of both James and Westbrook, a pairing that seems potentially difficult. Westbrook famously is among the most ball-dominant players of his generation, while James has become an exceptional offensive initiator and point guard alongside his innumerable other skills.

Westbrook, who has several eponymous auto dealerships in the Los Angeles area, is ready to play a complementary role to keep the Lakers on the road to a title.

"LeBron is one of the best players to play this game, and his ability to do everything on the floor allows me to just figure it out," Westbrook said. "I'm coming to a championship-caliber team, and my job is to make his game easy for him, and I'll find ways to do that. As it pertains to ball-handling, it really doesn't matter. There's many different ways you can impact the game without having the ball in your hands. I've been able to do that for a number of years, and we'll figure it out."

Westbrook's confidence is echoed by coach Frank Vogel, whose recent contract extension underlines Pelinka's faith in his ability to figure out how to win with this extremely talented, not-so-young roster. Along with Davis, Los Angeles will have three of the NBA's top five active scoring leaders with James (first), Carmelo Anthony (second) and Westbrook (fifth).

"Anytime you have three great players like this, there is an element of sacrifice required, and we've all talked about that and are all-in on that," Vogel said. "But these three guys can do it all. They're all make-the-right-play players. It's not just about scoring or being a one-dimensional player. They can all do it all. I'm most excited about seeing what the three of them on the court at the same time looks like."

Westbrook's ability to create opportunities for his teammates is unquestionable: The nine-time All-Star averaged a triple-double last season in Washington for the fourth time in the last five years, leading the NBA in assists for the third time in four seasons with a career-best 11.7 while adding a career-high 11.5 rebounds.
